Robert Workman, President and CEO of NOW Inc., commented, "We are excited that the organization was able to generate year over year and sequential revenue growth, especially considering the slowdown in completions in North America at the end of 2018 and persistent takeaway issues in both the Permian Basin and Canada. Top line improvements with midstream customers and increased activity with offshore operators and drilling contractors aided in producing these results.

While land rig activity in North America has declined recently, the shift of budgets to completions, in addition to order bookings for midstream projects and pipeline pumps to be delivered later in the year, may offset some of the headwinds expected in North America."

Prior to the earnings conference call a presentation titled "NOW Inc., First Quarter 2019 Key Takeaways" will be available on the Company's Investor Relations website.
